APPEAL FOR WORK PERMIT APPLICATION

Dear Officer-in-charge,

I, Lim Chew Yong of NRIC S8507397D, hereby would like to appeal for approval of the work permit application of the above-mentioned FDW.

I had received your email indicating that my application had been rejected on 25 September 2020. My wife and I are full-time working and most of the time requires long hour duty. We have one son who is still an infant. We do not have the luxury of any help from either of our parents, hence taking care of newborn is really very tough, and on top of that we both have to juggle our work and household chores. We desperately need a helper to help us for daily need. Without the help of a domestic helper, I would be concerned with the dangers of leaving my son alone at home.

I have selected a domestic helper, YUNI ANGGRAINI (Passport number C6861393) who we find is suitable for our household. We have interviewed her over teleconferencing and confident of her ability to complete her contract with us, as she is an experienced domestic helper who had working experience in Indonesia before.

In view of the Covid-19 requirements implemented by our Singapore government, I am aware of my responsibility to bear the costs as below:

- FDW / nanny's Covid-19 test (up to S$200 including GST)
- 14-day stay at a dedicated Stay-Home Notice (SHN) facility (S$1500 including GST), if applicable.

I seek your kind assistance in granting the approval. Thank you for your kind attention.

Yours faithfully,

Lim Chew Yong
